Parent's Corner: The Benefits of Playdates

Playdates are a great way for kids to interact and spend time together. Playdates are usually scheduled in advance and involve fun activities, enjoying each other's company, and strengthening your bond of friendship. Playdates allow kids to communicate, learn to share, learn about teamwork, and much more. School is a great place to meet new friends and connect with parents to schedule playdates. We encourage parents to seek out other families to arrange playdates for their children.
